Though classically trained Arthur Russell's major contribution to the music world was in the dance genre. Despite the fact that his pioneering work in the late 70s and through the 80s was only quietly acknowledged at the time his long term impact on the genre is best described as formidable

Russell's innovative; left field dance records were way ahead of what people were used to hearing at the time, in part due to his involvement New York's downtown avant-garde music scene. He scored several hits on the underground New York dance scene at clubs like The Paradise Garage (Larry Levan was a huge supporter). His biggest tunes, "Go Bang!" and "Is It All Over My Face?" were worldwide club hits and are still played today as classics.

Sleeping Bag Records and Traffic Entertainment Group are proud to present his seminal work, "24->>24 Music" expanded to a deluxe double CD box set issue. In addition to the music found on the original issue of "24->>24 Music" this set includes rare 12" remixes and edits including the highly coveted "Go Bang! (Walter Gibbons Mix) and the never before on CD "You Can't Hold Me Down (Test Pressing Version)". Both discs are housed inside beautiful full color sleeves that tuck into the extra durable box along with a 48 page booklet featuring unreleased photos by Janette Beckman and other Russell ephemera with words courtesy of Russell biographer Tim Lawrence.

Sadly Arthur died in 1992, but his music lives on and his influence is still felt in the world of dance music and beyond. His tunes still sound great and are still moving many dancers around the world, so his spirit lives on.

After years of speculation and delays, multi-platinum, Grammy award winning producer 9th Wonder just released his long awaited solo album The Wonder Years via his own It's A Wonderful World Music Group imprint. The project is now available as a deluxe double LP.

The former Little Brother member brings a star-studded cast to the album that includes Erykah Badu, Raekwon, Talib Kweli, Murs, Mac Miller, Saigon, Kendrick Lamar, Warren G, Big K.R.I.T., Pharoahe Monch, Marsha Ambrosius, Skyyoo, Big Remo, Rapsody, and former Little Brother groupmate Phonte Coleman.

In addition to a string of critically acclaimed albums with Little Brother, as well as a number of collaborative projects with Murs and Buckshot, 9th Wonder has also produced for some of the biggest stars in the world, a list that includes Jay-Z, Destiny's Child and Erykah Badu. After a mutual decision to part ways with Little Brother before the groups final album, 9th has put his focus on both on his long awaited solo album, as well as launching the careers of his IWWWG/Jamla signees Rapsody, Big Remo, Thee Tom Hardy and more.

9th Wonder's cultural influence goes well beyond reaching fans through his music. The producer is currently a professor at Duke University, and recently had a documentary entitled The Wonder Year released that followed a year in the life of 9th Wonder.

"If there was ever a better time to express how I feel about hip-hop music, black music, or just music in general.....it would be to do it now....on this project. My career has been from the depths of the underground, to the pop charts, but it has always stayed my sound, and what I believed in to be pure.....welcome to the Wonder Years," says 9th Wonder.
